LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE,
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS,

Washington, D. C., September 25, 1942.

SIR: I transmit herewith volume I of the Reports on Population, Sixteenth Decennial Census. Provision for the 1940 Population Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth Decennial Census, which was approved on June 18, 1929.

This volume presents the number of inhabitants for States, counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.), with separate figures for cities and other incorporated places, for wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and for metropolitan districts and census tracts. In addition to a section for each State, the volume contains a United States summary, in which the population data for the several States are brought together. The volume also includes a section for each of the territories and possessions.

The collection and compilation of these statistics and the preparation of this volume were under the supervision of Dr. Leon E. Truesdell, Chief Statistician for Population, and Dr. Philip M. Hauser, Assistant Chief Statistician, with the assistance of Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Population Analyst. The geographic work, including the remeasurement of land area, the determination of metropolitan districts and census tracts, and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Geographer, and Dr. Malcolm J. Proudfoot, Assistant Geographer.

Respectfully,

J. C. CAPT,
Director of the Census.

Hon. JESSE H. JONES,
Secretary of Commerce.

TABLES FOR INDIVIDUAL STATES, TERRITORIES, AND POSSESSIONS

The statistics for each State are presented in a series of eight standard tables. The subjects covered by the State tables are indicated by the list of titles immediately following, and the page on which each table is to be found for any given State is shown in the tabular statement below. There is some variation in the subjects covered by the tables for the District of Columbia, and the territories and possessions, by reason of differing local conditions. Table 7 appears only for States which include the main central city of at least one metropolitan district. Table 8 appears only for States containing at least one census tract city. Where there is more than one metropolitan district or census tract city in a State, the page references given below indicate the page on which the first such table or map appears in the section for the indicated State.

Table 1.—Population of the State, urban and rural, from the earliest census to 1940.

Table 2.—Population of cities of 10,000 or more from earliest census to 1940.

Table 3.—Area and population of counties, urban and rural: 1920 to 1940.

Table 4.—Population of counties by minor civil divisions: 1920 to 1940.

Table 5.—Population of incorporated places: 1940 and 1930.

Table 6.—Population of cities of 5,000 or more by wards: 1940.

Table 7.—Population of metropolitan districts: 1940 and 1930.

Table 8.—Population of tracted cities by census tracts: 1940.

MAP OF THE UNITED STATES SHOWING GEOGRAPHIC DIVISIONS

NUMBER OF INHABITANTS

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

General statement.—The results of the count of the population covered by the Sixteenth Census, taken as of April 1, 1940, were first published in a series of State bulletins, each entitled "Population, First Series, Number of Inhabitants." These bulletins gave the population by counties and minor civil divisions (townships, districts, precincts, etc.), with separate figures for cities, towns, villages, and other incorporated places, for wards of incorporated places of 5,000 or more, and for metropolitan districts and census tracts. Similar bulletins were issued for the territories and possessions, except the Philippine Islands, for which statistics are provided by a census taken by the Commonwealth of the Philippines in 1939. There was also issued a United States Summary Bulletin, in which the population data for the several States were brought together, with comparative figures for earlier censuses. After a careful editing, resulting in minor changes, all of these bulletins were assembled and bound together as sections of the present volume. The volume begins with the United States Summary, followed by sections for each State and the District of Columbia. Sections for the territories and possessions appear at the end of the volume.

The tables thus brought together give the 1940 population of all geographic areas and subdivisions for which official figures are available. The statistics are limited, however, to the total population of the various areas, without classification by race, sex, age, or any other characteristics, such classification being reserved for other volumes of the census reports.

The text presented in connection with the tables has been limited for the most part to such explanations and definitions of terms as are necessary to an understanding of the statistical tables, and no attempt has been made to analyze or interpret the statistics. This course has been adopted because it seemed to be more important to get the results in this complete form into the hands of the public without the delay that would accompany even a limited amount of interpretation and analysis of the data. Some explanatory paragraphs of general interest are presented in the introduction to the United States Summary, especially on pages 5 to 8.

Areas covered by the census.—The Sixteenth Census enumeration covered continental United States (that is, the 48 States and the District of Columbia), together with Alaska, American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, the Panama Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands of the United States, the military and consular services abroad, and the naval services abroad or in American waters but not on fixed station. Persons in the military service in the United States were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their posts of duty were located, and members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. The crews of vessels in the American merchant marine were enumerated as such and counted as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. As was indicated above, the Sixteenth Census did not cover the Philippine Islands.

PUERTO RICO

NÚMERO DE LOS HABITANTES

La isla de Puerto Rico fué formalmente entregada por España a los Estados Unidos en octubre de 1898, y de acuerdo con el Tratado de París, firmado el 10 de diciembre de ese mismo año, al finalizar la Guerra Hispanoamericana, cedida a los Estados Unidos, junto con Vieques, Culebra y otros islotes adyacentes. En el año 1899 el Departamento de la Guerra tomó un censo de Puerto Rico, y la isla fué incluída en los censos regulares decenales de 1910, 1920, 1930 y 1940. Se efectuó además un censo especial en 1935 bajo los auspicios de la Administración de Reconstrucción de Puerto Rico.

Población total.—La población de Puerto Rico el 1° de abril de 1940, de acuerdo con el Décimosexto Censo Decenal de los Estados Unidos, ascendió a 1,869,255 habitantes, lo cual representa un aumento de 325,342, o sea un 21.1 por ciento, comparada con la población de 1,543,913 habitantes el 1° de abril de 1930. El aumento durante el período del 1° de diciembre de 1935 al 1° de abril de 1940 (4½ años) fué de 145,721, o sea un 8.5 por ciento, que representa un coeficiente por año un poco más bajo que el aumento de 11.6 por ciento durante el período de 5½ años entre el censo de 1930 y el de 1935. El aumento anual correspondiente durante el período entre los censos de 1935 y 1940 fué de 1.90 por ciento; para el período de 1930 a 1935, de 1.95 por ciento; y para la década de 1920 a 1930, de 1.69 por ciento.

La tabla 1 muestra la población de Puerto Rico según los informes del censo de 1940 y los otros censos arriba mencionados, así como también de los nueve censos tomados anteriormente por el gobierno español a intervalos irregulares entre 1765 y 1887.

¹ Incluye tres aldeas en 1940, dos en 1920, tres en 1910 y dos en 1899.—Including three villages in 1940, two in 1920, three in 1910, and two in 1899.

Población urbana y rural.—En los censos decenales de Puerto Rico, así como en los censos de los Estados Unidos continentales, la población urbana se define como aquella que vive en ciudades, pueblos y aldeas de 2,500 o más habitantes. En el censo especial de 1935 se presentaron cifras sobre el territorio urbano según la definición que incluye solamente las ciudades y pueblos de 2,500 o más habitantes, y además cifras sobre la población total de todas las ciudades y pueblos. La población urbana que se da en la tabla 1 representa en todos los casos la población de las ciudades y pueblos de 2,500 o más habitantes, y la población rural comprende todas las personas que viven fuera de tales ciudades y pueblos, incluyendo los habitantes de los pueblos más pequeños.

The island of Puerto Rico was formally surrendered by Spain to the United States in October 1898, and by the treaty of Paris, signed December 10 of the same year, at the close of the Spanish-American War, was ceded to the United States, together with Vieques, Culebra, and other small adjacent islands. A census of Puerto Rico was taken by the War Department in 1899, and the island was included in the regular decennial censuses of 1910, 1920, 1930, and 1940. A special census was taken in 1935 under the auspices of the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration.

Total population.—The population of Puerto Rico on April 1, 1940, according to the Sixteenth Decennial Census of the United States, was 1,869,255, which represents an increase of 325,342, or 21.1 percent, as compared with the population of 1,543,913 on April 1, 1930. The increase between December 1, 1935, and April 1, 1940 (a period of 4½ years), amounted to 145,721, or 8.5 percent, which represents a slightly lower rate per year than the increase of 11.6 percent in the period of 5½ years between the census of 1930 and that of 1935. The equivalent annual increase for the period between the censuses of 1935 and 1940 was 1.90 percent; for the period between 1930 and 1935 it was 1.95 percent; and for the decade between 1920 and 1930, 1.69 percent.

Table 1 shows the population of Puerto Rico as returned in the census of 1940, in the other censuses mentioned above, and in nine earlier censuses taken by the Spanish Government at irregular intervals between 1765 and 1887.

Urban and rural population.—In the decennial censuses of Puerto Rico, as in the censuses of continental United States, urban population has been defined as that living in cities, towns, and villages of 2,500 inhabitants or more. In the special census of 1935 figures were presented both for urban territory defined as including only cities and towns of 2,500 or more, and for the aggregate population of all cities and towns. The urban population shown in table 1 represents in all cases the population of cities and towns of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and the rural population comprises all persons living outside such cities and towns, including the inhabitants of the smaller towns.

El territorio urbano de 1940 incluye dos aldeas que no se informaron separadamente en 1935 ó 1930. Estas aldeas adicionales, sin embargo, compensan solamente en parte la pérdida de territorio ocasionada en la clasificación urbana por la reducción en el área de enumeración correspondiente a algunos de los pueblos, y que se explica a continuación bajo el epígrafe "Ciudades y pueblos." La población de todas las ciudades y pueblos (77 en 1930 y 80 en 1940) aumentó de 489,584 habitantes en 1930 a 625,670 habitantes en 1940, o sea de 31.7 por ciento de la población total en 1930 a 33.5 por ciento en 1940. La proporción del total que vive en el territorio urbano de acuerdo con la definición arriba establecida (eso es, en ciudades y pueblos que tienen 2,500 habitantes o más) aumentó de 14.6 por ciento en 1899 a 27.7 por ciento en 1930, y aún más en 1940, a 30.3 por ciento.

El diagrama siguiente muestra la población urbana de Puerto Rico, así como también la población de los pueblos más pequeños, de acuerdo con los censos desde 1899 hasta 1940.

Distritos senatoriales.—La tabla 2 da la población de los siete distritos senatoriales de Puerto Rico. Las municipalidades que componen cada distrito se muestran en el mapa enfrente de la página 1.

Población Urbana y Rural de Puerto Rico: 1899 a 1940

Urban and Rural Population of Puerto Rico: 1899 to 1940

Densidad de población.—La superficie de Puerto Rico, incluyendo los islotes adyacentes que pertenecen a la Isla, es de 3,423 millas cuadradas. El promedio de habitantes por milla cuadrada en 1940 fué, por lo tanto, 546.1, comparado con 503.5 en 1935, 451.0 en 1930, y solamente 278.5 en 1899.

Municipalidades.—Para los efectos del gobierno local, Puerto Rico está dividido en 77 zonas llamadas municipalidades. Las islas de Culebra y Vieques constituyen una municipalidad completa cada una; los otros islotes adyacentes forman partes de municipalidades. El número de municipalidades en 1940 fué igual al número en 1930. Entre los años 1920 y 1930 se organizó una nueva municipalidad—Cataño, la cual se segregó de Bayamón. Sin embargo, entre el 1910 y el 1920 se hicieron muchos cambios en las demarcaciones municipales, de manera que las comparaciones que se hagan en relación a fechas anteriores a este último año, no son muy satisfactorias. En la tabla 3 (página 3) se muestra la población por municipalidades para 1940, 1935, 1930 y 1920, además de la superficie de cada municipalidad y su población por milla cuadrada en 1940. Esta tabla muestra también la población urbana y rural para los años 1940, 1935 y 1930.

The urban territory of 1940 includes two villages which were not reported separately in 1935 or 1930. These additional villages, however, only partly offset the loss of territory from the urban classification resulting from the reduction in the area covered by the enumeration for some of the towns, which is explained below under the heading "Cities and towns." The population living in all cities and towns (77 in 1930 and 80 in 1940) increased from 489,584 in 1930 to 625,670 in 1940, or from 31.7 percent of the total population in 1930 to 33.5 percent in 1940. The proportion living in urban territory as defined above (that is, in cities or towns of 2,500 or more) increased from 14.6 percent of the total in 1899 to 27.7 percent in 1930 and further to 30.3 percent in 1940.

The diagram on this page shows both the urban population of Puerto Rico and the population living in the smaller towns for the censuses from 1899 to 1940.

Senatorial districts.—Table 2 shows the population of the seven senatorial districts of Puerto Rico. The municipalities making up each district are shown on the map facing page 1.

Density of population.—The land area of Puerto Rico, including the adjacent and dependent islands, is 3,423 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile was, therefore, 546.1 in 1940, as compared with 503.5 in 1935, 451.0 in 1930, and only 278.5 in 1899.

Municipalities.—Puerto Rico is divided, for purposes of local government, into 77 areas called municipalities. The islands of Culebra and Vieques each constitute an entire municipality; the remaining small adjacent islands form parts of municipalities. The number of municipalities in 1940 was the same as in 1930. Between 1920 and 1930 one new municipality was organized—Cataño, formed from a part of Bayamón. There were many changes in municipality boundaries, however, between 1910 and 1920, so that comparisons going back of the latter date are not very satisfactory. The population is shown by municipalities for 1940, 1935, 1930, and 1920 in table 3 (page 3), together with the land area of each municipality and its population persquare mile in 1940. This table also presents the urban and rural population for 1940, 1935, and 1930.

Ciudades y pueblos.—La ciudad de San Juan, que tenía una población de 169,247 habitantes en 1940, es coextensiva con la municipalidad de San Juan. Hay también otros dos lugares, Ponce, con 65,182 habitantes, y Mayagüez, con 50,376 habitantes, que por lo general se llaman ciudades. Sin embargo, la ciudad de Ponce ocupa solamente una pequeña porción de la municipalidad que lleva su nombre, la cual comprende además 21 barrios; la municipalidad de Mayagüez también comprende 20 barrios además de la ciudad.

El sitio en que está ubicado el gobierno de las 74 municipalidades restantes se designa siempre en este informe como un pueblo. En todos los casos exceptuando uno (Dewey, en la municipalidad de Culebra), el pueblo lleva el mismo nombre que la municipalidad—aunque el pueblo cuyo nombre ahora oficialmente es Loíza, hasta hace poco era conocido por Canóvanas. Se presentan también cifras referente a 1940 para tres aldeas, a saber, Ensenada en la municipalidad de Guánica, Aguirre en la municipalidad de Salinas, y Loíza Aldea en la municipalidad de Loíza. Esta última era en años anteriores la sede del gobierno de la municipalidad y se conocía entonces por Loíza.

Entre 1935 y 1940 el área cubierta por el censo en ocho de los pueblos—Corozal, Hatillo, Hormigueros, Jayuya, Lajas, Las Marías, Loíza (Canóvanas) y Villalba—se redujo algo debido a que ciertas áreas principalmente rurales en sus características parecen haber sido incluidas en censos anteriores. Las cifras de 1940 para estos pueblos, aunque más pequeñas que las consignadas en los informes para 1935 y 1930, no indican necesariamente (exceptuando a Dewey) una reducción de la población. La población total en 1940 correspondiente al área cubierta en cada uno de los casos por las enumeraciones de 1935 y 1930 se presenta en la tabla 6.

En 1940 nueve ciudades y pueblos de Puerto Rico tenían una población de 10,000 o más habitantes. La tabla 4 muestra la población de estas ciudades y pueblos en cada censo desde 1899 hasta 1940, y el aumento o descenso habido durante el intervalo entre censos.

La población de todas las ciudades y pueblos desde 1920 hasta 1940 se presenta en la tabla 5 (página 5).

Cities and towns.—The city of San Juan, with a population of 169,247, is coextensive with the municipality of San Juan. There are two other places, Ponce, with 65,182 inhabitants, and Mayagüez, with 50,376, which are generally called cities. The city of Ponce, however, occupies only a small part of the municipality bearing the same name, which contains in addition 21 barrios; and the municipality of Mayagüez contains 20 barrios in addition to the city.

The place in which the government of the 74 remaining municipalities is located is in this report uniformly designated a town. In all cases except one (Dewey, in the municipality of Culebra) the town bears the same name as the municipality—though the town whose name is now officially Loíza has been known until recently as Canóvanas. Figures for 1940 are also shown for three villages, namely, Ensenada in Guánica municipality, Aguirre in Salinas municipality, and Loíza Aldea in Loíza municipality. The last named was in earlier years the seat of the government of the municipality and was then known as Loíza.

Between 1935 and 1940 the area covered by the census in 8 of the towns—Corozal, Hatillo, Hormigueros, Jayuya, Lajas, Las Marías, Loíza (Canóvanas), and Villalba—was reduced somewhat, since it appeared that some territory mainly rural in its characteristics had been included in earlier censuses. For these towns the 1940 figures, while smaller than those shown in the reports for 1935 and 1930, do not necessarily indicate a decline in population. The total population in 1940 of the area covered in each case by the enumerations of 1935 and 1930 is shown in table 6.

Nine of the cities and towns in Puerto Rico had a population of 10,000 or more in 1940. Table 4 shows the population of these places at each census from 1899 to 1940, together with the increase or decrease during each intercensal period.

The population of all cities and towns from 1920 to 1940 is shown in table 5 (page 5).

Divisiones civiles menores.—Las municipalidades de Puerto Rico están subdivididas en áreas más pequeñas, denominadas barrios. Ni los barrios ni las ciudades y pueblos que ocupan el territorio densamente poblado, tienen ninguna otra forma de gobierno local que el de la municipalidad en que están ubicados.

Además de los barrios, hay en las municipalidades de San Juan y Cayey reservas militares y navales, y una estación de faro en la isla Culebrita de la municipalidad de Culebra.

La tabla 6 (página 6) muestra la población de Puerto Rico por barrios. Bajo el nombre de cada municipalidad se anotan primero el pueblo, seguido por sus subdivisiones si las tiene, y después los otros barrios en orden alfabético.

Minor civil divisions.—The municipalities in Puerto Rico are divided into smaller areas called barrios. Neither the barrios nor the cities and towns which occupy the closely settled areas have any form of local government distinct from that of the municipality in which they are located.

In addition to the barrios there are military or naval reserves in the municipalities of San Juan and Cayey, and the Culebrita Island lighthouse station in the municipality of Culebra.

Table 6 (page 6) shows the population of each municipality in Puerto Rico by barrios. Under the name of each municipality are given, first, the town, together with its subdivisions if any, and then the other barrios arranged in alphabetical order.
